Are there any exceptions to the statute of limitations laws?

Question	Answer
Exceptions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • People v. Harrison, 803 N.Y.S.2d 5 (N.Y. App. Div. 2005) (relying on N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 30.10(4)(a)) (tolling the statute of limitations because defendant’s whereabouts “were continuously unknown and continuously unascertainable by the exercise of reasonable diligence” inasmuch as it was impossible to identify a suspect until arrival of recent advances in DNA technology). • People v. Brown, 890 N.Y.S.2d 415 (N.Y. 2009) (statute of limitations following commission of sodomy offense was tolled and excluded from five year statute of limitations until defendant’s DNA profile from victim’s rape kit was matched to DNA evidence). • People v. Ramos, 877 N.Y.S.2d 177 (N.Y. App. Div. 2009) (tolling five year statute of limitations where whereabouts of rape and robbery suspect were continuously unknown and unascertainable by exercise of reasonable diligence until nearly ten years later when suspect’s DNA profile was matched to DNA evidence taken from him prior to incarceration). • People v. Bradberry, 891 N.Y.S.2d 850 (N.Y. App. Div. 2009) (tolling statute of limitations for bringing first degree rape and second degree burglary charges until eight years later when suspect was convicted of an unrelated crime and a DNA match was made). • People v. Sigl, 967 N.Y.S.2d 570 (N.Y. App. Div. 2013) (tolling statute of limitations for indictment charging defendant with burglary in the first degree and sodomy in the first degree where whereabouts of suspect were continuously unknown and unascertainable by exercise of reasonable diligence until a year later when a DNA match was made).

- People v. Burroughs, 968 N.Y.S.2d 773 (N.Y. App. Div. 2013) (refusing to toll statute of limitations for sodomy in the first and third degrees and for rape in the third degree because the offender's DNA profile had been in the statewide databank since 1998, and the prosecution failed to offer an explanation as to why offender's identity was not ascertained sooner by the exercise of reasonable diligence, especially since the perpetrator's DNA was entered into the databank in 2003).
- People v. Vega, 983 N.Y.S.2d 30 (N.Y. App. Div. 2014) (applicable statute of limitations for rape in the first degree was tolled because defendant's identity and whereabouts were unknown and were unascertainable by the exercise of reasonable diligence).
- People v. Gardner, 65 N.Y.S.3d 492 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2017) (tolling statute of limitations for first degree rape while defendant was out of state and his whereabouts were continuously unknown, and until a DNA match was made).
- People v. Giardala, 86 N.Y.S.3d 56 (N.Y. App. Div. 2018) (applicable statute of limitations for rape in the first degree, among other sexual offenses, was tolled because defendant's identity and whereabouts were unknown and were unascertainable by the exercise of reasonable diligence. Defendant's constitutional rights regarding a speedy trial were not infringed because any prosecution delays were caused by lack of advances at the time in DNA science and DNA evidence eventually conclusively established defendant's guilt).
- People v. Cruciani, 92 N.Y.S.3d 611 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019) (five year statute of limitations for rape in the third degree and third degree criminal sexual act was tolled while defendant was out of state).
- People v. Weinstein, 170 N.Y.S.3d 33 (N.Y. Sup. Ct., App. Div. 2022) (five year statute of limitations for rape was tolled while defendant was out of state, and the toll applies to residents and nonresidents).

Anything else I should know?

Question	Answer
Anything else I should know?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Statute of limitations tolled (N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law § 30.10(4)):<ul style="list-style-type: none">• 4(a) during any period following the commission of the offense in which (i) the defendant was continuously outside this state or (ii) the whereabouts of the defendant were continuously unknown and unascertainable by the exercise of reasonable diligence (however, the period of limitation shall not be extended by more than five years beyond the otherwise applicable limitations period); or• 4(b) when a prosecution is commenced within the prescribed period of limitation and when an accusatory instrument upon which such prosecution is based is dismissed by a court under directions or circumstances permitting the lodging of another charge for the same offense or an offense based on the same conduct, the period of limitations is tolled during the period extending from the commencement of the defeated prosecution to the dismissal of the accusatory instrument.
